

NANCY WYNNE TALKS ABOUT THE VARIOUS DOINGS OF SOCIETY

A Delightful Affair Will Be Given Tonight at the Home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brinton Cox for Their Son and Daughter

MEMBERS of the younger set are looking forward to the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brinton Cox will give tonight at their beautiful country home in Penlyn in honor of their daughter, Catherine Cox, and their son, Henry Brinton Cox, Jr. Besides the dance for tonight there will be a house party over the weekend, lasting until the Fourth of July.

At the dance tonight there will be at least 150 of the younger set. The Coxes are renowned for their hospitality, and certainly they could not have a more charming background than the beautiful place at Penlyn, with its wide, shaded lawns. It is very warm tonight so the dancing will take place outside. Then they will entertain on Tuesday night, too, at their annual affair to celebrate the Fourth, when they will keep open house, have a display of fireworks on the lawn and dance also.

Another delightful affair which will be given tonight will be the buffet supper and dance which Henry T. Price will give out at Valley Farm, his home in West Chester. His guests will also be taken from the younger set, though some who were to go are at present at Mount Gretna. I understand, however, there will be plenty of guests as there are a few men left, and now that things look brighter in the war question perhaps we will be welcoming the boom-a-liddles home again soon. Let us hope so, anyhow. Be that as it may, among the guests tonight will be Nancy Dunning, Natalie Dallett, Christine Dallett, Helen Strawbridge, Katharine Strawbridge, Dorothy Leonard, Edith Watt. Among the men who were invited are Ben Rush, Jr., who is at Mount Gretna; Latimer Coleman, John Wynn, Andrew Gordon, Ned Gardner, Jack Newlin, Henry Dallett and Francis Dallett.

I wonder if they finally met, and I sincerely hope they did, for when I last saw her she was waiting at the station for a train; and the only trouble about it all, as she confided to me, was that ——— was to have called her up that morning to tell her where to meet him in town for lunch and he had not—in fact, she had not seen ——— for several days and was a bit doubtful as to whether he still intended to have that lunch party or had entirely forgotten about it. The funny part of it all was that she decided to go anyhow, even if she was not sure. The wild goose chase these young things go on! Usually when one takes a train one knows where one is going. In this case, however, that was not to be. Town was all she knew, and town it was. Here's to hoping that the young delinquent turned up somewhere to meet her, wherever it was, and that it all ended in a delicious tete-a-tete. She looked awfully cute in her new suit and quite one of the best looking hats I have seen for many a day, standing on the platform of a Reading station. I wonder if her dignified mother knew that she was doing this rather undignified thing would she have been pleased? Somehow I doubt it.

ESTHETIC DANCING LATEST BEACH CRAZE

Summer Seashore Colony Disports on Sands in Early Morning

ATLANTIC CITY, June 30. — Outdoor dancing is the latest diversion of the fashionable summer colony, the members of which rise early and frolic down at the water's edge. They wear Annette Kellerman surf suits, sans hose, and go through a series of esthetic movements. This open-air dancing is rather a serious business, the object of which is to promote grace and agility. A plunge in the surf follows the exercises and then, mildly, is ready for the business of the day, whether it be making bandages for the soldiers, shopping, sailing or the inevitable bridge.

A number of cottagers attended the weekly bridge at the Chelsea Yacht Club. Among the players were Mrs. Frederick Rollman, Mrs. Samuel W. Pikan, Mrs. A. L. Myers, Mrs. George C. J. Johnson, Mrs. Gustave Seidel, Mrs. Harry Parsons, Mrs. Charles Daniels, Mrs. William Metzgar, Mrs. Charles Bonnor, Miss Miller, Mrs. Milton Ott, Mrs. George Shialer, Mrs. Frederick Guy, Mrs. Arthur W.
